Criteria I- Curricular aspects

1.1.1 Curricular planning and implementation

1.1.1 The institution ensures effective curriculum planning, delivery and evaluation through a well defined process as described by the respective councils and the affiliating University.

The minimum requirements in dental curriculum are laid down by the Dental Council of India & adopted by Ragiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences Bangalore Karnataka. The college's main role is in curriculum implementation, while the college cannot alter the basic requisites of the curriculum, it can only add to it.

Our Institution ensures conduct of continued dental education programmes, research & patient care regularly. The interactions & experiences, & exposure gained is translated as feed back from faculty members in curriculum implementation.

The Principle goals & objectives of Dental Health Education is to bring out Human Resource, Who are competent, skilled, compassionate & caring dentist. Hence the curriculum is structured in a manner, that first covers the basic medical & dental science subject, preclinical & Para clinical training, leading to a exhaustive clinical training and throughout the undergraduate course/training. The teaching- learning programme comprises of lectures, seminars based theory, hand on focused preclinical training & problem care based clinical mentoring.

The one year compulsory rotating internship requires the undergraduate student to experience all clinical disciplines of dentistry, it provides a platform for further enhancing one's competency in dental care. In fact the internship is structured as to provide the student maximum experience in the most common patients complaints in the Indian and global contexts, viz. periodontal diseases, operative dentistry, prosthodontic rehabilitation and surgical therapy.

As part of the curriculum, students enrolled in the Master of Dental Surgery programmes, must undertake and complete a research project, a dissertation- in partial fulfillment of their Masters Degree. These Dissertation s are an important aspects of current scientific debate and discussion, as well as those that translate to benefit the patients in diagnosis and treatment. The inclusion in the curriculum of recent additions to dentistry, such as oral implan logy, lasers in periodontal surgery, and forensic dentistry, ensure that research is undertaken in these emerging and thrust areas to faculty and students. Moreover, faculty m embers also undertake research projects of their own which focus on such areas and others.

In addition to teaching new thrust areas and emerging specialties, the teaching includes coverage of continual developments and latest trends in material science, and long established therapeutic procedures such as Histopathological aspect of identifying the lesions to using definitive diagnostic methods like immunological markers, Root canal treatment, Denture fabrications etc. These investing in new equipment, material and techniques lead to newer innovations.

To sum up the streams offered by the institution, are in accordance with the curriculum designed by the Dental Council of India and adopted by RGUHS and assimilated through the institution, which cater to needs of the community and the society it serves, through a varying combination of programmes offered, competency developed and skills gained by the students, an emphasis on research and development that drives the growth of the subject and profession, and additional skills beyond the minimum recommended in the curriculum. These not only guarantee employability of the institutions graduates, and they are most sought after and a have an added advantage over others at selection process or at recruitment by other dental establishments.
